Bush team preparing for BG visit

by Christina Wise
city editor

Despite White House officials claiming George Bush's Saturday visit to Bowling Green is not a sure thing, plans for the president's whistle-stop visit are already under way.

Paul Luthringer of White House media relations said there has been no official announcement of the visit, yet Bush representatives are lodged in the Best Western Falcon Plaza, organizing the event.

Topper Ray, White House advance press lead, said Bush will be speaking Saturday afternoon. The full agenda, though, has not been completed.

"Bush is definitely going to be here," he said. "Right now we know he will be speaking somewhere near the Heinz plant."

Robert Maurer, owner of the plant property, said Bush representatives requested use of his property and he was happy to comply.

"I think it's a good thing for Bowling Green to have the president visit," he said. "I've been a little disenchanted with the economic policies of George Bush, but it's still good to have him here."

State Sen. Betty Montgomery said Bush's visit will be "a boost for the troops" and give Republican issues a higher profile in the area.

"It's important to have the president be here to energize the grass-roots movement in Ohio," she said, "especially since Ohio is such an election battleground."

State Sen. Randy Gardner echoed Montgomery's opinions, saying the visit "will bring important political issues out in Wood County."

He also added he believes the University is one of the main reasons the president has decided to visit Bowling Green.

"I'm sure [the student population] was an important factor in the president's decision to come to BG," Gardner said.

College Republicans President Scott Ziance said he knew he wasn't going out on a limb when he predicted the visit last month.

"We put forth a strong effort to get Bush to visit BG because our College Republicans have been recognized as such a strong chapter," Ziance said. "That's why Bush is coming."

Bowling Green Mayor Wes Hoffman said the president's visit may swing area votes in his direction.

"I suppose any visit by a presidential candidate will swing the votes one way or the other, but to what extent I don't know," he said.

Hoffman also said the city will be assisting the Secret Service in security Saturday, as he said it is mandated by federal law.

"Regardless of the election, out of respect to the incumbent president, the city should welcome him and do all they can to make him safe and comfortable," he added.

Haskins woman killed:

An 83-year-old Haskins woman died in a two-vehicle accident in Bowling Green Saturday.

Annabelle Duncan died in Wood County Hospital Saturday evening as a result of internal injuries received during the accident. The driver of the other car, David L. Weis, 26, of 612 Pasteur Ave., is in fair condition at Wood County Hospital.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Rudolph and West Gypsy Lane roads at about 3:50 p.m. According to the police report, Duncan was northbound on Rudolph Road and Weis was westbound on West Gypsy Lane Road. Duncan was stopped at the stop sign and then pulled out into the intersection, apparently not seeing the oncoming vehicle.

The vehicles collided twice and Weis' vehicle struck a utility pole and skidded into a nearby field.

Police said it was likely Duncan was at fault for the accident, but no citations have been issued.

University may provide power for communities

by Chris Hawley
local government reporter

The University may soon be helping to supply reserve electricity to 13 area communities if school and city officials approve a new agreement to share output from generators at the heating plant and Jerome Library.

Bowling Green City Council members approved negotiations toward a shared-output contract at its meeting Monday night, and Public Utilities Director Daryl Stockburger said he will now begin working out the details of the agreement with University officials.

The contract would allow the city and 12 other communities in the Northwest American Municipal Power-Ohio Service Group to use the generators during "peak" periods in the summer when extra power is needed.

University Vice President of Operations Bob Martin emphasized that the agreement is not meant to provide emergency electricity.

"It's really only during periods of peak demand," Martin said. "It's not an emergency measure in the traditional sense of the word."

Stockburger said the group's present generating capacity is about 50,000 kilowatts, and added the demand for electricity topped 53,000 kilowatts in August.

The NAMP-OSG currently buys supplemental power from Toledo Edison. In 1991, the group bought about $126,000 in extra electricity.

Stockburger estimated it would cost the city about $255,000 to synchronize a 600-lowatt diesel generator at the University heating plant, a 170-kilowatt natural gas generator at Jerome Library and a 325-kilowatt natural gas generator at the city waste water treatment plant to supply electricity to the city's power grid.

Stockburger estimated the cost of extra electricity in 1991 would have been only $11,000 if the three generators had been online.

Under a proposed contract, the city would only call the generators into service during peak periods and would reimburse the University for any fuel used.

The University would not receive direct payment for use of the generators, but Stockburger said the decrease in the University's electrical bill during the peak periods should make the agreement attractive to school administrators.

He added that the University accounts for 25 percent to 30 percent of the electricity used by the city.

The city council also approved plans to join the NAMP-OSG in buying a used generator and locating it at the water treatment plant to supply another 1,500 kilowatts of electricity.

Stockburger said the generator could cost the NAMP-OSG member communities as much as $390,000. Bowling Green would pay 47 percent of the cost; in return, the city would be able to use it to power the water treatment plant during emergencies.

De-icing proposal hoped to cut aircraft casualties

by Lawrence L. Knutson
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The federal government's plan for keeping airliner wings free of ice and snow has a price - more delays for wintertime passengers - but it may save lives.

The Federal Aviation Administration says 16 accidents over the last decade are related to the failure to de-ice the aircraft properly before takeoff. More than 100 people were killed.

The agency is expected to announce its new de-icing plan in the next few weeks. Airlines then would have to submit their own de-icing proposals for approval and to implement them by Nov. 1, in time for winter flying.

Airline industry sources said the FAA plan is expected to lead to more intensive training for flight officers and de-icing ground crews, changes in the type of de-icing fluid used and construction of secondary de-icing facilities at the end of runways at some airports.

"We are going to be doing some things differently and you may see some additional delays," said David Hasse, air safety chairman of the Airline

Pilots Association. "Passengers should understand that this is a necessary part of the safety process."

Teams are being established at 30 major airports to determine the best way to clear ice from planes, he said.

The FAA was roused into action by the crash of a USAir flight on an icy runway at New York's LaGuardia Airport last March that killed 27 people. The agency is examining whether a buildup of ice on the wings of the Dutch-made Fokker 28 aircraft caused them to

Alfredo Lebron, 25, fatally struck while working in Cleveland area

The BG News staff report

A University senior died Saturday as a result of injuries suffered last week in a truck accident.

Alfredo Lebron, 25, a business administration major at the University, was hit by a truck backing up Wednesday while working as a flagman at Interstate 77 and Grant Avenue in Cuyahoga Heights.

A 1985 graduate of St. Ignatius High School, Lebron had been active in the intramural football league and was a member of the Latino Student Union at the University. He was reportedly just 40 credit hours short of earning his degree.

Lebron, who had planned to embark on an accounting career upon graduation, was engaged to marry Ellie Vasquez this spring.

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Michael Catholic Church, 3114 Scranton Road, Cleveland.

Lebron is survived by his parents, Arvia and Lolito, of Cleveland; brothers, Jaime and Edwin, both of Cleveland; sister Brenda of Cleveland; and grandmother Ramonita Rodriguez-Lugo of Cleveland.

He was also a member of the Cleveland Softball League and the John Cupedro Memorial Dart League.

Loss to Ohio State may help financial situation of BGSU

by Julie Tagliaferro administration reporter

The Falcons may have lost the football game against Ohio State, but the University will still benefit.

The game created a lot of interest and support from alumni and their fans, said Jack Gregory, University athletic director. Much support was generated at pre-game parties hosted by the alumni association and the Falcon Club, an athletic support club.

Supporters of the team may give the University monetary contributions, although Gregory said that could not be determined at this time.

"An awful lot of interest [in donating money] was seen at the game," he said. "I think it's too early to tell what the results will be."

Lester Barber, executive assistant to University President Paul Olscamp, said he predicts the game increased the likelihood of people contributing to the University.

"The Ohio State game is a wonderful reminder to people to give gifts to the University," Barber said. "Education and intercollegiate athletics will benefit due to contributions because of good publicity and good feeling generated throughout the state."

Allen Zink, assistant director for alumni affairs, said the alumni association sponsored two events in Columbus to promote alumni interest in the University.

Although no money was raised at the pep rally and tailgate party to aid in the educational or intercollegiate athletic budgets, Zink said items, including sweatshirts, were sold at the two events. Profits will help pay for last spring's renovations to the Mileti Alumni Center.

Zink said more than 200 alumni in the Columbus area attended the pep rally and 525 Falcon fans purchased tickets for the tailgate party prior to the game.

The alumni association, Zink said, attempts to sponsor an alumni party or gathering at special University sporting events and tournaments that are far from the University to generate response from University alumni in the area.

"We want to promote the University to those alumni who cannot make it back to the University," Zink said. "We would like to bring the University to them."

Ken Frisch, director of development, said the University has not received any personal monetary donations as a direct result of the game at this time.

Frisch said personal alumni contributions are not always "in dollars and cents" but are also in the form of voluntary aid, corporate connections and other forms of help.

"We had some events [at the football game] to get people to feel close to the University," Frisch said. "It is a long-term cultivation process, but the people will help the University."

Frisch said he could not say if the football game alone would generate any contributions made to the University. However, he said, a combination of events, including Homecoming and dedication ceremonies, impact the amount of support given to the University.

USG to review EOB policies

Recent electoral controversy initiates motion for changes

by Jeni Bond
student government reporter

Undergraduate Student Government President Jason Jackson announced Monday at the General Assembly meeting the establishment of a committee that will review and make recommendations for the restructuring of the Elections and Opinions Board.

Jackson said the purpose of the committee is to make the election process as fair as possible for all candidates. The creation of the committee is a result of the controversy that arose during the USG senate elections last week in which two candidates were removed from the ballot for invalid petitions.

"I just want to make sure the process is fair," Jackson said. "We don't want to disqualify people for their inability to follow directions, but need to rely more on the integrity and ability of the candidates to serve students."

Martone

"I just want to make sure the process is fair. We don't want to disqualify people for their inability to follow directions, but need to rely more on the integrity and ability of the candidates to serve students."

Jason Jackson, USG president

Pete Martone, who was disqualified from the election, said he hopes the committee does not just change one EOB rule but looks at the entire process.

"I don't want the committee to have a narrow outlook," Martone said. "I want to see free thought here -- not people reading rules, but interpreting them and relating them to specific cases."

Matt Fair, a newly elected senator, said being a part of the election made him aware of the need for a reconstruction of the rules. "What happened was sticky, but now we are in a position to change these rules," Fair said. "The election is water under the bridge, and now we need to make the election process fair for all students."

USG also began debating the '92-'93 budget proposed by Jackson. The General Assembly only voted on parts of the budget and will continue the process at its next meeting. The entire budget was not voted on because many senators want to look into where the money is going, according to Jackson.

"They are trying to be united and make everything on the up and up," Jackson said. "They want to make sure the students' money isn't wasted."

Jackson said it is frustrating during the debates because he believes his proposal is sound.

"I spent 30 hours of my own time over the summer preparing the budget," Jackson said.

Working with a $30,904 budget, USG approved the presidential and vice-presidential stipend and secretary wages, which total $26,100. Other items approved included $400 for office supplies, telephone rental fees of $1,025, $1,000 for travel expenses and $400 for election costs. Also, $6,500 was approved for the faculty and course indication booklets, $600 for OSA dues and $50 for voter registration costs.

lose their aerodynamic lift.

The plane had waited for takeoff more than half an hour after its second and final de-icing.

The FAA says that in two of the 16 accidents determined to be related to ice buildup -- the crashes of an Air Florida Boeing 737 in Washington in 1982 and of a Continental Airlines DC-9 at Denver in 1987 -- investigators found that ice formation after de-icing was a major contributing factor.

For years, the FAA standard wintertime rule was that pilots should not take off with ice or snow adhering to the wings or vital parts of the aircraft.

That put the burden for the go or no-go decision entirely on the flight crew.

According to airline industry sources, the FAA's final de-icing regulation will lead to:

- Much more intensive training for flight officers and de-icing ground crews.
- A significant increase in the use of the so-called No. 2 de-icing fluid commonly used in Europe. The fluid has a longer staying power than the No. 1 fluid long used in the United States.

- An intensive effort to reduce the numbers of planes waiting to take off in winter weather.

Police Blotter

□ An employee of Eagle Construction reported Monday that someone threw a concrete stake through a trailer on the Founders construction site on East Wooster Street sometime during the weekend, police said.

□ A resident of South Enterprise Street told police she saw a man without pants standing on her back porch Wednesday night. The suspect was described as a white male wearing a blue hooded jacket.

□ Police confiscated a BB gun from a South Summit Street resident Tuesday because he allegedly fired the weapon within city limits, which violates a city ordinance. According to police, the man explained he was just using the gun to hunt pigeons.

□ Residents of Scott Hamilton Drive have been complaining recently about a neighbor in the 800 block who owns roosters that crow at about 5 or 5:30 every morning. Police said they advised the roosters' owners of the complaints, but cannot file any charges against them because city animal ordinances do not cover this situation. Upset neighbors were referred to the county prosecutor's office to take legal action.

□ An unnamed complainant reported to University police Tuesday that hundreds of anti-greek posters have been posted on buildings on campus, and he plans to file charges if the person responsible is identified.

□ Douglas V. Masters, 42, of Toledo, was arrested for DUI, failure to maintain reasonable control and possession of drug paraphernalia Friday. Police said Masters struck a parked car in the lot of Barney's Convenience Mart, 996 S. Main St.

□ Daniel A. Westfall, 22, of Lakewood, was cited for open container and littering in a municipal parking lot Friday, police reported.

□ Matthew E. Purper, 19, 148 Anderson, was cited for disorderly conduct in a municipal parking lot Saturday. According to the police report, Purper was reportedly "observed attempting to urinate in public" and ran when he saw the police car. He was stopped and given a ticket.

□ Michael J. Gudakunst II, 19, of Bradner, was cited for disorderly conduct Saturday for public urination in the parking lot of First Federal Savings and Loan, 124 E. Court St.

□ William M. Strazinsky, 22, of Akron, was cited Saturday for publicly urinating in the parking lot of First Federal Savings and Loan, 124 E. Court St., police reported.

□ A man reported that someone covered his car with flour, peanut butter, mustard and sugar when it was parked on Fourth Street Saturday. The complainant told police he also found a ring, which he allegedly gave to his ex-girlfriend, covered in peanut butter and stuck onto the bumper of his car. No charges have yet been filed.

□ Lori A. Vaccani, 18, 220 McDonald North, was cited for littering Saturday on Ridge Street, police said.

□ Patrick J. Laughery, 20, of Columbus, was cited for underage possession and open container Saturday in a municipal parking lot, according to police.

□ John K. Miller, 22, 710 Scott Hamilton Drive, was cited for open container on Manville Avenue Sunday, police reported.

□ Daniel J. Korn, 19, of Richmond Heights, was cited for underage possession of alcohol Sunday on Troup Avenue, police said.

Ohio candidates join move to pass term-limit issues

by Robert E. Miller
The Associated Press

COLUMBUS -- U.S. Senate candidate Mike DeWine and three candidates for the U.S. House joined Monday in a bipartisan endorsement of three Nov. 3 ballot issues limiting the terms of elected public officials.

Democrat Richard Cordray and Republican Deborah Pryce -- who oppose each other in the 15th Congressional District -- and Pete Davis, the GOP candidate in the 3rd District, backed Issues 2, 3 and 4.

They and DeWine appeared at a news conference with James Coyne of Langley, Va., president of Americans to Limit Congressional Terms, a group coordinating efforts to win voter approval of similar issues in 15 states.

He described the action in Ohio and elsewhere as a national movement that would rid Congress and other elective offices of entrenched officials who are "arrogant and out of touch with their constituents."

Issue 2 would set eight years as the limit for U.S. House members and provide that U.S. senators could serve no more than 12 years consecutively. Issue 3 provides an eight-year maximum in the Ohio House and Senate while Issue 4 does the same for statewide elected officials.

Ohioans for Term Limits collected more than 583,000 voter signatures to place on the ballot what was to have been a single issue, covering all state and federal officials elected in Ohio. The state Ballot Board, in approving the ballot language, decided to have three separate issues.

Coyne said he does not see the decision affecting the outcome. DeWine said limits are needed to pump new blood into Congress. He said Congress has become unresponsive to the public.

Pryce said: "The public is tired of the good old boy system that we have in Washington."

Volleyball team slips past Central Michigan

by Mike States
sports writer

What a difference a day can make.

A fifteen-game Mid-American Conference win streak was seriously jeopardized as the Bowling Green volleyball team had to play five games to defeat Central Michigan in its league opener.

The next day Bowling Green swept a hapless Eastern Michigan squad.

The Falcons, who have not lost a conference match since Western Michigan swept them on September 27, 1991, dropped the first two games (4-15, 10-15) against the Chippewas Friday night.

"It was very nerve-racking," Bowling Green head coach Denise Van De Walle said. "I knew it had potential to be a good match, for they (the Chippewas) had improved since last year."

With their backs against the wall, Falcon senior outside hitters Angellette Love and Holli Costein provided the needed support to mount a comeback and take the third game, 15-9. Love finished the match with 19 kills and nine digs while Costein had 13 kills and 13 digs.

Another major contributor was senior setter Carey Amos, who helped "wake up" the non-existent BG passing game and finished with 42 assists.

"Our passing and serving were just not up to par in the first two games," Van De Walle said. "In the third, fourth, and fifth games we started to settle down and pass much better. Angellette and Holli were just too much for them (the Chippewas)."

The Falcons were able to take the fourth and fifth games (15-6, 15-5) and preserve their MAC unbeaten streak. The match marked the first time a MAC school had taken BG to five games since November 15 of last year, in which the Falcons were taken to the limit against the Ohio Bobcats.

BG came out the next night with a vengeance and needed just three games to dispose of Eastern Michigan, 15-6, 15-0, 15-10.

The Eagles were held to a paltry .046 attack percentage and the physical Falcons forced 17 errors. On account of this, Van De Walle was able to insert her reserves in the final game.

Women's cross country team defeats Kent State

by Andrew Dugan
sports reporter

Winter, 15th with 20:40; and Becky Striet, 16th with 20:51.

Sink credits this struggle to a lack of mental toughness and to the fact that many of the runners are under the weather.

The coaches of the men's and women's cross country teams said last Saturday's meet against Kent State was going to be very close, and indeed it was.

The women pulled out a victory over Kent with a score of 26 to 29. Cheri Triner placed first, for the second time in two meets, with a new personal record of 17:50. The race was on a 5-kilometer (3.1 miles) course.

"I think it's significant that Cheri set a personal record on a much tougher course," said women's coach Steve Price. "It's the third fastest time ever run on that course."

Other finishers for the women were: Tracey Losi, fourth place with a time of 18:45; Jill Strawser, fifth with 19:15; Suzanne Isco, seventh with 19:25; Jennifer Wheeler, ninth with 19:41; Kristin Gaddis, 14th with 20:26; Chris Price noted that top runner Jen Frahn, who is usually one of the top five girls, failed to place due to an asthma attack.

"She did finish, though," Price said. "I think she'll be OK for this weekend."

Price found the outcome of the meet to be significant to the team's potential standing this season.

"We have now defeated three MAC teams that beat us last year," he said.

The men's team took the loss in a close race. BG scored 30 points to Kent's 26.

"We ran better than last week. We did improve," said men's coach Sid Sink. "We started the race running great, but we're still struggling in the middle part."

"We've got to get mentally tough. We can only get better," Sink said.

Eddie Nicholson finished first for the Falcons and second overall, covering the 5-mile course in a time of 26:00. Kent's Marcus McClellan won the race in 25:41.

Other finishers for the men were: Brad Schaser, fifth with 26:33; Scott Kelly, sixth with 26:38; Tim Arndt, eighth with 26:54; Deric Kenne, ninth with 27:00; Shawn Howard, 10th with 27:01; Brian Butler, 13th with 27:43; Glen Lubbert, 14th with 27:53; Aaron Staczak, 15th with 28:03; Dave Lincicome, 17th with 29:00; and Nate Prussian, 18th with 29:08.

Both teams will run this Friday in the Mel Brodt Invitational. This will be the Falcons' only home meet of the year.

The BG News' Athlete of the Week

Cheri Triner, who won her first two cross country meets of the season, has been selected as the BG News' Athlete of the Week.

Last week, Cheri finished first at the Jeff Drenth Invitational, setting a meet and course record with a 17:58. She topped that amazing performance at the Kent Dual Meet this weekend, covering the 3.1 mile course in 17:50 to win by eight seconds. Both clockings were personal records, the latest coming on a very tough course. Women's head coach Steve Price believes Cheri's best races are yet to come.

Triner

"Cheri will reach a new level in running," said Price. "She's definitely one of the best in the Midwest."

Falcon Fever.Catch It!

If you've ever dreamed of being behind the controls of an airplane, this is your chance to find out what it's really like.

A Marine Corps pilot is coming to campus who can take you up for trial flights.

We're looking for a few college students who have the brains and skill—as well as the desire—to become Marine pilots.

If you're cut out for it, we'll give you free civilian flight training, maybe even $100 a month cash while you're in school. And someday you could be flying a Harrier, Cobra or F/A-18.
